

LILLIAN AMAH-ALUKO

Lillian Amah-Aluko is an award-winning actor, producer, and writer with an extensive professional background.

After completion of the national youth service at Shell Petroleum Development Company in Lagos, Lillian commenced her career in the private sector. Over a span of 15 years, she held various roles in several private sector organizations including ADC Airlines, DHL Nigeria Ltd., Fedex Red Star Express, culminating in a five-year stint at Fidelity Bank PLC, where she served as the acting head of the Private Banking Unit. In 2005, she made a pivotal decision to transition into the creative industry by founding New Dawn Production Company Limited. She also holds the position of Executive Director and head of Co-Production at Tribe Nation Theatrical Distribution Company Limited.

In addition to her contributions to the arts, Lillian served as a lecturer in the English Department at Nnamdi Azikiwe University Satellite Campus in Lagos from 1999 to 2001. She retains a strong commitment to education and actively participates in numerous youth-oriented events as a judge, mentor, and speaker. Notable engagements include her involvement in the University of Ibadan's Havana Festival, the Nigerian Economics Students Association program at Obafemi Awolowo University, and training sessions for members of the Actors Guild of Nigeria. Lillian's acting career commenced in 1996 with her role as Alero in the critically acclaimed production "Out of Bounds."
